LEAGUE RECEIVES GRANT FROM COMCAST

The League of Historical Societies of New Jersey has received a grant of $2,850 for the publication of its newsletter, League News.

“We are most grateful to Comcast,” said Linda Barth, executive director of the League. “This grant will allow us to continue publishing our newsletter and distributing it to our six hundred member societies and delegates, as well as to all members of the New Jersey Senate and Assembly.”

The League News newsletter sponsorship includes:

- ◆ production, distribution, and mailing of four issues throughout 2007 & 2008 (August 2007, January 2008, April 2008, and August 2008);
- ◆ distribution and mailing of approximately 750 copies to historical society members throughout NJ and to all members of the New Jersey Legislature;
- ◆ printing of approximately 250 additional copies for distribution at various events by the League of Historical Societies or Comcast as appropriate; and
- ◆ the Comcast logo on the mailing face of each newsletter

Comcast was founded in 1963 as a single-system cable operation. Today, it is the country’s largest provider of cable services and one of the world’s leading communications companies. Comcast is focused on broadband cable, commerce, and content. The company delivers digital services, provides faster internet and clearer broadband phone service, and develops and delivers innovative programming.

THE WASHINGTON-ROCHAMBEAU STUDY IS AVAILABLE FOR DOWNLOAD

The New Jersey Historic Trust has announced the completion of The Washington-Rochambeau Revolutionary Route in the State of New Jersey, 1781-1783: An Historical and Architectural Survey, by historian Robert A. Selig, Ph.D.

The survey is an in-depth and detailed study of Revolutionary War military marches of both the French and Continental troops through the State of New Jersey in 1781-1783, en route to the defeat of the British army and General Cornwallis at the Battle of Yorktown, Virginia, October 19, 1781, and their return journey north.

The full study is available for download in three very large .pdf files at this address: <http://njht.org/dca/njht/publ/W3RReport.html>. For further information, please contact Catherine Goulet, Principal Historic Preservation Specialist, New Jersey Historic Trust, 609-984-7071; cgoulet@DCA.state.nj.us.

A LETTER FROM YOUR EDITOR

Dear Friends,

Thank you for your many contributions to this and previous issues of the League News. Your suggestions, articles, and events attract the attention of our readers and help to make this publication beneficial to all in the historical community.

You will notice that this issue contains many more upcoming events than usual. When I sent out an appeal for calendar items, I was gratified to receive so many. As a result, I have tried to include all, or nearly all, of your events.

As a cheerleader for New Jersey and all it has to offer, I hope that many of you will take this opportunity to attend one of the events hosted by a member society, perhaps in an unfamiliar section of the Garden State. It's a chance to see your colleagues and tour their sites.

If you would like to learn more about celebrating and praising our great state, you may wish to visit www.CelebrateNJ.org. Celebrate NJ! is a grassroots movement created to build pride and to celebrate all of what we love in the Garden State. One of its founding tenets is that there are many reasons to celebrate New Jersey, and it's good for all of us when we do!

ARCHIVES WEEK IN MONMOUTH
Monmouth County Library, 125 Symmes Drive, Manalapan, NJ

Wednesday, October 10—Workshop and Lecture:

Workshop 9 to noon. Long Lasting Digital Prints. Monique Fischer, Photographic Conservator, Northeast Document Conservation Center. Color prints made from digital files are not considered preservation quality and currently, there are no standards for longevity regarding digital images. There are, however, ways of creating long-lasting prints by understanding the materials employed and controlling the conditions where the print will be stored. This presentation will address the three most important factors that affect the life of a digital print: the quality of materials used, such as the colorant (dye vs. pigment) and paper; the combination of materials used; and afterwards, the storage and display of the prints.

Lecture 1 to 3. Nineteenth Century Monmouth County Photographers. Gary D. Saretzky, Archivist, Monmouth County Archives. As a vacation destination, Monmouth County had more photographic activity in the 1800s than other New Jersey counties with comparable year-round population densities. Expanding on his "Nineteenth-Century New Jersey Photographers," New Jersey History (Fall/Winter 2004), Saretzky will present a slide lecture concerning the leading photographers active in Monmouth County before 1900.

Continuing education credit certificates for teachers provided for both workshop and lecture on request. Registration for the workshop is $15 per person. No registration is required for the lecture unless an individual requests a continuing education certificate, in which case advanced notice of attendance is requested.

Contact: Shelagh Reilly, 732-308-3771; sreilly@co.monmouth.nj.us.

An optional tour of the Monmouth County Archives will follow the workshop and lecture.

To register, please return the form below, with check payable to Monmouth County Clerk, to Shelagh Reilly, Monmouth County Archives, 125 Symmes Drive, Manalapan, NJ 07726.

NEW JERSEY BOOKSHELF

One of New Jersey's earliest permanent Methodist camp meeting grounds, Mount Tabor embodied the austere evangelical fervor of 1869. Canvas tents on 16-by-25-foot leased lots surrounded Trinity Park, the focal point of all religious and social activity for ten days in late August. The camp meetings were hugely successful, and the growing community needed more permanent housing. Narrow, two-story Victorian cottages with intricate porches and balconies began to sprout on the lots. In 1885, the octagonal-shaped tabernacle, with its soaring walls and heaven-high ceiling, was built. As early as 1891, the religious summer colony expanded its recreational activities, and by 1912, Mount Tabor was more of a summer resort than religious retreat. After World War II, most of the 350 cottages were converted to year-round use, and Mount Tabor became a community within Parsippany, welcoming people from all religions and backgrounds. Today the unpretentious charm of its humble beginnings permeates the quaint community, and modern residents, like their forebears, are drawn to the rich, spiritual heritage of goodwill and the delightful cottages that invite fellowship.

The Mount Tabor Historical Society was founded in 1990 for the purpose of preserving and restoring the Victorian heritage of Mount Tabor. The society compiled Mount Tabor from photographs in its archives and from the personal collections of local residents. To order your copy, please contact the Mount Tabor Historical Society, P.O. Box 271, Mount Tabor, NJ 07878; 973-586-1564.

When incorporated in 1919, Brielle was a summer tourist destination with a fledgling recreational fishing industry. The Manasquan Inlet permanently reopened in 1931, ensuring Brielle's status as a center for recreational sportfishing. Anglers flocked to Brielle to participate in tournaments, party boat passengers drove "down the shore" to enjoy a day of fishing, and a fleet of sportfishing boats grew at the docks. The personalities and stories of individual anglers are as varied as the fleet of vessels, from the anonymous fishermen who fluked along the Manasquan River to Lou and Eugenie Marron, a husband-and-wife team whose record-setting swordfish catches in the late 1950s remain unbeaten today. Exploits of Brielle anglers are recorded in fishing journals and sporting magazines from coast to coast.

Founded in 1973, the Union Landing Historical Society recently restored the Osborn Family Burial Ground, established a 9/11 memorial, and placed markers at historical sites in Brielle. The society awards an annual scholarship for excellence in history and sponsors historical programs. Book order forms are available upon request from rfshea@briellehistory.org, can be downloaded from the website, www.briellehistory.org/order.htm, or you may pick up a copy in Brielle at Boro Hall, Simko's, Eloise or the Brielle Library.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF HIGHLANDS HOSTS LEAGUE MEETING

On Saturday, June 9, 2007, the Historical Society of Highlands hosted the League's spring meeting on the beautiful coastline of Sandy Hook. The meeting was well attended, with over eighty members and guests. The morning began with coffee and refreshments, followed by opening remarks by Judith Patterson, president of the Historical Society of Highlands. HSH members, Monmouth County Freeholder Anna Little, and Carla Cefalo-Braswell, President of the Highlands Business Partnership, then spoke to the attendees about preserving our history.

The League meeting and reports were presented by President James Raleigh. Then Jennifer Griffin, of Pastime, Inc., demonstrated the PastPerfect software program, explaining how it can be used by historical societies and similar institutions for recording donations of items covering multiple categories, as well as data entry of inventory and membership information. PastPerfect is approved by the American Association for State and Local History as "exemplary software for museums and historical societies." It conforms to the latest standards for cataloging archive, library, historic object, art object, natural history, archaeology, and photograph collections, encompassing every aspect of collection and membership management.

As the centerpiece of the morning, the Historical Society of Highlands presented a video program of turn-of-the-century postcards from the collection of Walter B. Guenther. Those in attendance were also able to purchase items for sale and receive free brochures and information.

Many members then enjoyed a delicious lunch served at the historic Bahrs Restaurant, located at the foot of the Highlands Bridge. Some participants toured local attractions such as the Twin Lights of the Navesink and Fort Hancock. It was a wonderful event to begin the summer season.

CAMDEN & AMBOY RAILROAD SYMPOSIUM SLATED FOR NOVEMBER 10

Presentations by railroad historians of local and national stature will highlight the Camden & Amboy Railroad Symposium in Bordentown on Saturday, November 10. The day-long event, sponsored by the Camden & Amboy Railroad Historical Group, will commemorate the first run of the John Bull, the world's oldest operational railroad locomotive, and the 325th anniversary of the founding of Bordentown.

Among those invited to speak are noted rail historians Bill Withuhn, of the Smithsonian Institution; Chris Baer, of Hagley; Kurt Bell, of the Railroad Museum of Pennsylvania; and Bill McKelvey, of the Friends of the New Jersey Transportation Heritage Center, as well as several well-known local rail historians. Various aspects of the Camden & Amboy's history and operation will be reviewed, including the railroad's construction and operation, the role of the Stevens family in the technological development of New Jersey's railroads, the history of the John Bull locomotive, the creation of the Joint Companies and its monopoly on our state's early transportation, and the relationship of the C&ARR to the Delaware and Raritan Canal and to the City of Bordentown. A commemorative ceremony, linking past to present, is also planned.

Tickets for the symposium cost $30 ($15 for college students), which includes registration, luncheon, and membership in the historical group.

For further information and a registration form, contact the historical group at 609-443-4000 x210 (daytime on weekdays), 215-757-6631 (evenings), or mbliss2@verizon.net.

DID YOU KNOW...

...that some of our member societies pay the registration fee for their delegates to attend the three League meetings each year? This is an idea that others may want to consider.

SPOTLIGHT ON OUR MEMBER ORGANIZATIONS

With our members spread across the state, many of us are not familiar with the organizations in regions far from our own. This column will spotlight our members, so that others may learn of their mission and accomplishments.

The League has many member organizations that were formed to honor or remember a specific group of people. This is Part I of a series highlighting those societies.

The African American Heritage Museum of Southern New Jersey brings to life the African American experience of the 20th century as it documents the struggle of one group of Americans to carve its own place in the wider cultural landscape. With a permanent home in the heart of southern New Jersey, the museum offers a unique opportunity to open a window to the mindset of successive generations of African Americans and provides an understanding of its cultural evolution.

The African American Heritage Museum boasts an impressive collection, including graphics, drawings, paintings, and advertisements, as well as household and decorative items, all depicting blacks in a historical context. In a decade-by-decade account, from Aunt Jemima to Tiger Woods, the museum provides a visual and visceral understanding of how the African American culture has evolved and changed. The museum features special programs for adults and children, schools, and nonprofit organizations.

Over thirty years ago, founder Ralph Hunter began a personal collection of African American cultural, artistic, and media images that inspired the museum. He also has a traveling exhibit with access to over 3000 cultural and historical artifacts. Contact: The African American Heritage Museum of Southern New Jersey, 661 Jackson Rd, P.O. Box 39, Newtonville, NJ 08346; 609-704-7262; www.aahmsnj.org; rhunter@AAHMSNJ.org.

The American Labor Museum is housed in the Botto House National Landmark, a 1908 Victorian home that belonged to silk mill worker Pietro Botto and his wife, Maria. It was the meeting place for over 20,000 silk mill workers during the 1913 Paterson Silk Strike. The strikers called for safe working conditions, an end to child labor, and an eight-hour day. This action and others like it brought about workplace reforms that are broadly enjoyed by Americans today. The museum has restored period rooms, a labor and immigrant library (including books, audio and video cassettes), Old World Gardens (with a bocce court, grape arbor, root cellar, and chicken coop), and changing exhibits.

The overall purpose of the American Labor Museum is to advance public understanding of the history of work, workers, and the labor movement throughout the world. To this end the museum emphasizes four specific themes: (1) the history of the organized labor movement; (2) the culture of working people throughout the world, with special attention to the ethnic and immigrant aspects of the lives of American workers; (3) the changing nature of work and the workplace in United States history; and (4) labor in contemporary society. The on-site educational programs are Millworker/Millowner (in conjunction with Lambert Castle and Great Falls Visitors Center), and Labor Education Tour (in conjunction with the Paterson Museum and Great Falls Visitors Center). Museum in a Suitcase, for grades 4-12, is designed to supplement social studies, language arts, humanities, visual and performing arts, music and drama, New Jersey history, conflict resolution, and multiculturalism curricula. It can also be used for any age group to prepare for a visit to the museum. The suitcase contains artifacts from the museum's collection. Contact: American Labor Museum, Botto House, 83 Norwood Street, Haledon, NJ 07508; 973-595-7953; www.labormuseum.org; labormuseum@aol.com.

The Descendants of Founders of New Jersey was formed to (1) provide scholarship assistance to students of American history who have a special interest in the history of New Jersey, and who are enrolled in a New Jersey college or university, or support activities which enhance or preserve early New Jersey history; (2) establish, preserve, and publish lines of direct descent from founders who settled in New Jersey prior to 17 April, 1702; and (3) establish and maintain a society of fellowship among descendants of the founders of New Jersey. The Descendants of Founders of New Jersey was founded in November, 1982, under the leadership of Harriet Stryker-Rodda. Mrs. Stryker-Rodda, the author of numerous books, was well known within the genealogy community. Membership in the society is open to men and women, 18 years of age or older, who can prove descent from a founder of New Jersey prior to 17 April, 1702, in any area which is now in the State of New Jersey, provided they subscribe to the objectives of the society. The society's members believe that the people who encouraged and financed the individual and group ventures responsible for the settlement of New Jersey are historically and genealogically as important as the settlers themselves. Thus the name of the organization was chosen to honor both the people with vision and money to back the venturers and the settlers who came to carve out a better future in a new home. The date of 17 April, 1702, was chosen because that was the date on which East Jersey and West Jersey were merged into New Jersey as a single entity. By that date basic settlement had been accomplished in the areas that now make up the State of New Jersey. A founder is defined as anyone who was a settler or anyone who financed the settlement of others in any area now within the borders of the State of New Jersey.

The mission of the Museum of Early Trades & Crafts is to enhance the understanding and appreciation of America's past by presenting and interpreting the history, culture, and lives of ordinary people through educational programs, preservation and stewardship of its collection, and exhibition and demonstration of the trades and crafts practiced in New Jersey from its earliest settlement. A new exhibit, "Building the Building—Elements of Style," invites visitors to explore and gain a true appreciation of the exquisite building METC calls home. Before the James Library Building housed the museum, it was the first official town library of Madison. Built in 1900 as a gift to Madison by philanthropist D. Willis James, the church-like building was embellished with beautifully painted tiles, ornate stained glass windows and a working bell tower. LETTERS, WE GET LETTERS...

Disclaimer: The opinions expressed by our correspondents are the opinions of individuals and are not necessarily those of the League.

From Clifford Swisher, of the Little Falls Historical Society:

"On behalf of the Executive Board of the Little Falls Historical Society, please accept our thanks and gratitude for selecting our Historic Newsletter for third place in the 2006 Publications Awards Competition. It is indeed an honor to be selected... Please let the League and the Award Committee know of our pleasure in receiving this award." Mr. Swisher goes on to thank his wife, Shirley, and Vick Winkler for their editing expertise, and Ralph Arminio, the printer. The society is especially grateful to the Greater Community Bank, which underwrites the cost of printing.

WHALING HARPOONS STOLEN FROM CAPE MAY COUNTY MUSEUM

FBI agents have joined an investigation into the theft of whaling tools from the Cape May County Museum. Curator Pary Woehlcke said that the thieves stole two darting guns and a single-flued harpoon, with estimated values between $1500 and $2000. Among the other stolen items used by whalers in the early 19th century were a toggle iron, a bomb lance, a brass sextant, and three sailors' palms. A worker noticed the artifacts missing on June 5. The museum estimates the stolen items are worth more than $7,500.

The FBI agents are assigned to the bureau's Art Theft Program. Authorities are monitoring internet auction sites for any sign of the 200-year-old harpoons, police Capt. Scott Webster told The Press of Atlantic City. Museum officials believe the culprit was a collector, because other items were not taken from the case and those that were taken are among the most valuable. Museum workers believe someone unlocked the doors of the barn that serves as the museum from the inside before returning later to make off with the artifacts.
